Author's Forward

Near the end of 2004 I was about to have a second major breakdown. I almost didn't make it through the first one, seven years prior, the horror having lasted the entire seven years.

Recognizing that I wouldn't have made it through another one, I simply told God "I give" and shortly after began to notice the presence of Angels.

This was a gift to me and has certainly served me and my healing beyond anything I could have imagined. And not just for me, but for others, too. Shortly after the Angels showed up in my life, I started to get information for others to get in touch with their own Angels. And the information brought them hope and healing as well.

This e-book is my gift to you in the hope that you can get the same amount of help that I did in putting your life back where it belongs.

And how can I be I so sure of the Angels' ability to help, serve, and heal?

With love and gratitude,

- Paul Greblich

Introduction

This e-book is only the beginning.

This is the beginning of a wonderful journey for you to be able to explore and experience life in ways that are more in-line with your well-being. This was my own experience as I was first exposed to these principles that I'm about to share with you.

No matter how much money, fame, or anything else the world says is necessary for success in life, the one thing that's added the most to my own life was my own spiritual connectivity.

When I abandoned this connection and became involved in the world's limited focus, my life was a miserable wreck for way too long.

Once I understood at a gut level what was missing, however, I made the absolute commitment to go all the way with that part of my life. And it's been a beautiful experience that has brought healing to every part of my life, too.

I cannot fathom a greater spiritual connection than one which includes Angelic guidance. And because of this, I want to communicate this and share it with the world.

<http://www.YouHaveAngels.com>

I have written this book for you to help you start connecting with your own Angels. This will lead you towards help, healing, and hope in whatever area of life you need it, just like it has for me and the people whom I've worked with.

Thank you for letting me share this starting point with you, in what could be a special journey to your own spiritual sense of wholeness, guided and directed by your own Angels.

Principle One

You Have Angels

You have Angels.

You always have.

And you always will.

Think of your Angels as your own personal team of experts in everything, especially everything about you, your life, and your needs. This will give you a clearer picture of what they are in your life for.

You have Angels....and they want to help you with whatever you need to find peace, balance, and happiness as soon as possible...and to stay that way!

“Angelic Guidance” is obviously a term that goes along with the topic of Angels.

After, all, that's what Angels DO, don't they? Give guidance.

And that's what people who connect with their Angels can expect to receive.

But the term "guidance" relating to Angels means a lot more than the standard dictionary definition of those words might imply.

The dictionary defines "angelic" as "of or pertaining to angels" and "guidance" as "advice", to summarize the various related entries. Therefore, it's not too off-base to assume that a good definition of angelic guidance as "advice from your Angels".

However, "advice" as a definition severely restricts the scope of help you can expect to receive from them.

VERBAL INSTRUCTIONS OR A ROPE?

Even though I use the term "Angelic Guidance" regularly when I'm discussing the topic with people, I don't think this is the most applicable phrase. And though people are normally very thankful to receive any usable, practical advice to solve a problem, in many cases what's received goes beyond mere verbal instructions or advice.

Imagine sinking in a pool of quicksand. Though I'm sure you'd appreciate all the verbal instructions someone could offer you, handing you a rope to climb out - or even helping to pull you out - is obviously much more useful, and much more needed.

So going one step further beyond mere verbal communication, the help you'll receive from your Angels is more along the lines of "Angelic Services" rather than something of a more verbal answer to a question.

In another example, imagine driving through an unfamiliar place and getting a flat tire. Let's say that a local police officer happened to be driving by and saw what was happening. Once stopping, would you like it if the officer helped you change the tire, especially if you've never done it before? THAT would be service, no?

Or would you rather the officer just tell you what to do while you awkwardly go through the steps yourself. Of course, it would be valuable to know how to change your own tire, but what if it was raining? And you were stuck in the mud? Would you want to do it all by yourself then? Out of some adherence to some principle, suffering through it the whole time?

Common sense dictates that you would allow yourself to get all the help you needed to move on from whatever in your life isn't working perfectly for you as fast, easy, and gentle as possible.

Why withhold from yourself on purpose?

Your Angels feel just as strongly that you deserve not only the verbal "knowing" of what the answer is, but all the help you need in getting there, too.

They can help you with what you need for every step of the way, too. But for you to be able to receive this, you must consider that they can do much more for you than just give you verbal or intuitive guidance.

Principle Two

Benefits of Angelic Guidance

There are countless potential benefits you can receive from connecting to your Angels more often. And the more often you connect with them and let them help you, the more benefits you will receive.

Here are just a few of the many positive benefits you may notice when connecting with your Angels:

- * Stronger intuition.
- * More frequent synchronicities.
- * Faster and less-costly resolution of problems, and with more permanence, too.
- * Increased clarity about your life's work, purpose, or "mission."
- * More consistent happiness and joy – "just because" and for no obvious reason.

- * Greater insight into becoming more successful in every way you choose.
- * Relationship difficulties are diminished, and even difficult relationships can be resolved lovingly, rather than disharmoniously.
- * It becomes easier to self-forgive and accept yourself no matter what your present state or circumstances.
- * A feeling of greater momentum toward your right place in life, and that “helping hands” are assisting with this.

These are just some of the many positive benefits you may experience once you start connecting with your Angels more frequently.

There is no limit to the help, guidance, and support you can have, no matter what the topic, circumstances, or need.

Principle Three

Your Angels are Always with You

Your Angels have always been with you, and always will be.

They are with you in those times when you remember them, and things are going smoothly. And they have also been with you in times where you forget about them, and things were not going well, or maybe even horribly wrong.

In fact, during those moments when things were flowing easily, working out wonderfully and seemingly without you having to put out much effort at all, consider that you were naturally in-tune with your Angels' guidance.

And in those times where things weren't going as smoothly as you would have liked, you simply but temporarily forgot about the help you had available.

Your Angels say that it's now time to remember their presence all the time, so you don't have to suffer needlessly, or delay what would bring you happiness, wholeness, or peace.

<http://www.YouHaveAngels.com>

Why should you have to suffer when you have Angels who are waiting to help you find everything that you need
- for what's right for you - as you were designed?

Principle Four

Your Angels WANT to Help You

Your Angels WANT to help you and have the same goals for your life as you do - complete peace, balance, and happiness.

It doesn't bother them to help, guide, and serve you.

In fact, they have no higher purpose than to serve those God created - and that's you.

Your needs are important or you wouldn't have been designed with them just as they are. Notice that the word is "designed" and not just "created". You were carefully designed to be exactly as you are, and with your specific needs. Your needs are all designed to be met in every way that is right for you.

Other people might have accepted the thought that by connecting with God and the Angels, they might be told they would have to join the priesthood or a convent or some other role with lots of sacrifice involved. (And while there is certainly nothing wrong with being "called" to one of those professions, the fear of obligation to it is a potentially troublesome worry.)

But there really is nothing to worry about, and nothing further from the truth.

Since most, if not all, dictionary definitions of God describe Him as all-powerful, why the heck would you, personally, have to sacrifice anything that would bring you joy and wholeness and freedom to just be yourself?

After all, with God being all-powerful, He'd just create whatever He needed without having to wait or rely on your sacrifice to do so.

And don't think this isn't the case - it's what "Creators" do. They create things. What things? Solutions to anything they need.

And since this is an All-Powerful Creator, at least by definition, He can create solutions to whatever YOU need to be happy - and fully happy - without even much effort.

So consider from this point on that your Angels aren't going to ask you to sacrifice anything at all. In fact, they already know how difficult your life is, what you're missing, and how to get you to what you need in ways faster, easier, and more gentle than you could do on your own.

Your Angels, in fact, do have the same goal as you do for your life - complete peace, balance, happiness, and everything right for you, all the time.

This is how you're naturally designed and what your own goal is for yourself, too - to find complete wholeness, completion, happiness, peace, and joy...and to be able to STAY there.

And your Angels WANT to help you get there as fast as "Angelically" possible.

Principle Five

Your Angels Have the Ability to Help You

The Angels aren't restricted to the 3-D human world, and thus don't suffer with the same limitations that humans do. Because of this, they have more access to be able to help you with any problem, difficulty, or issue you may have when your own options seem limited.

In fact, it might be good to associate them with having a connection to All-Power and All-Knowing, since they also reside on Heaven's side of the tracks.

The Angels also don't have limits on patience. And though they don't have human limitations, they are completely aware of the world you find yourself in, and how difficult it can be. So with their infinite love and patience, they will offer all the help you need for as long as you need it. And this will help you make it past whatever difficulties you find yourself in, or to help you find everything that will bring more joy, peace, and happiness to your life.

Angels also don't get tired, and don't need to sleep.

And one thing they certainly don't get tired of is helping you.

<http://www.YouHaveAngels.com>

They also don't have any quotas or limits to the amount they can help you with.

Your Angels want to help you overcome any limitations that are keeping you from having peace, balance, and happiness all the time.

You just needed to know that they can.

Principle Six

Angelic Guidance is Free

There is no cost to getting help from your Angels.

They are with you through your whole life - beginning to end - and they offer their help, love, guidance, and support freely.

There is no cost to having them in your life, no matter how much you need them, and no matter how great the need.

You will simply get their help and assistance to your well-being as dictated to them and sent by the loving God who sent them to you. This is the same loving God who created you – designed you – to be exactly as you are and wants help you meet your needs exactly as you were designed.

Since this world can often be fraught with people who don't consider your needs valuable enough to be that high on their own personal agendas, God has sent the Angels to help defend you and your needs from those who would squander them. This is needed while you are still on the path to becoming whole and to make you “immune” to the outside world.

<http://www.YouHaveAngels.com>

It's the world that wants to take from you, not God and the Angels. Everything that comes from the world has a price, but everything that comes from God and the Angels is free.

Principle Seven

You Are Entitled to Your Angels' Help

There are plenty of unhealthy concepts that come from old-school restrictions and control-based religions that dramatically interfere with your ability to receive spiritual guidance, including getting help from your Angels.

So let's examine these to see if they have any merit and value in keeping -

Have you ever heard someone who is completely convinced that the following is true?

"God's too busy to bother with you..."

God has too many more important things to do...

Your needs don't matter...

...and besides, they're too petty. There's people starving in the world and you want fulfillment, for God's sake? How selfish can you be?..."

...and on and on and on until it gets to the point where you might think that someone is trying to keep you from Angelic and spiritual help, not to mention God's help directly.

It seems like someone, somewhere, is trying to give you enough "reasons" that sound legitimate to NOT connect with Heaven's side of things to help you with what you need.

Ideas like these haven't been questioned for centuries, it seems. But they should have been questioned a long time ago, and seen for what they are.

These types of restrictive beliefs are often expressed by those who may have personal agendas to keep you from getting answers from God directly, so you would possibly have to keep getting your answers from them.

To put it more directly, there are people who have a vested interest in having you NOT receive guidance directly from God and the Angels. They try to keep you in fear to keep you from doing so.

The crazy part is that those ideas have often been expressed in some sort of religious environment, where you are supposed to be helped and supported in connecting with God and all of Heaven more deeply. But because of these false concepts, the opposite has often occurred.

You end up “fearing” God and your own natural connection with Heaven’s helpers. It causes you to shy away from your natural connection with God, so you might end up thinking it's best to just stay on your own, no matter how bad the circumstances, for fear of not doing things right. Or asking too much. Or that your needs don't matter.

Get rid of those so-called “beliefs” right now and don't let them back in your life for any reason. They were always false to begin with.

And try to shy away from giving anyone else too much credibility or relevance who might want to make you fearful of direct guidance from God or the Angels.

Principle Eight

Angelic Guidance is Normal, Easy, and Natural

Connecting with your Angels and receiving their guidance, help, and support is one of the most comfortable, normal, and easy experiences in the world.

You might have seen movies that depict Angels and the Angelic realm as "supernatural" and with having bad intentions toward humanity. And if the movie was a horror movie, it might especially seem like the presence of Angels is certainly NOT a good thing.

It might depict them and having them around as too "weird", or having some sort of distorted agenda to hurt some people while helping others, and God forbid if you're on the wrong side, huh?

But consider the following:

Often times, people begin to get a high degree of comfort in their lives once they've asked the Angels to assist them, or to "just be around" for whatever they need. Even feelings of loneliness started disappearing and it often feels like an “extended family” is around.

This is certainly the opposite of what those movies based on fictional beliefs would suggest, isn't it?

What you might find, too, is that having your Angels around might also bring feelings of deep peace and "okayness" with yourself. And it might even give you the sense that everything's going to be okay, even if you don't know the specifics of how things will work out in your current circumstances.

The feelings of comfort and familiarity that come from the Angels' presence is because your Angels have been with you since you were born. They have been with you your whole life but you could sense them much more easily when you were a small child. That is, before the world's conditioning began to move your focus away from your own natural spiritual connections and sense of wholeness.

When you were very tiny, your Angels brought you a sense of love, support, and deep peace that you considered completely normal and natural at the time. Getting in touch with them again and allowing them to help you will again bring you back to that sense of deep peace, love, and sense that everything's going to be okay once again.

<http://www.YouHaveAngels.com>

And not only that, but the Angels want to make that your natural and normal state.

Could this be anything BUT appealing?

Principle Nine

Angelic Guidance is Always Good for You in Some Way

Angelic guidance always comes in a form that serves YOU, not takes away from you. There is never the possibility of you being “ordered” around like a slave, soldier, or of someone bossing you around.

Your Angels are experts in everything about you, and they simply want to offer suggestions and options in the form of thoughts, intuitive feelings, and inclinations that could lead you out of difficult situations and toward more positive ones.

Guidance from the Angels always comes in a way that will be recognized as adding to your life in some way, with either making it easier, better, or more productive in some way.

The answers that come from them will have a quality of feeling like it’s a workable answer, a path that would be good to lead you to something where all roads before have been lost, lonely, or taken already and found wanting.

<http://www.YouHaveAngels.com>

They will give thoughts full of self-worth and why that giving up on yourself doesn't lead to success, peace, and balance, even if the world has given up on you.

Principle Ten

The Angels Want for You What YOU Want for You

The Angels don't have messages of sorrow and sacrifice to bring you. If God is all-powerful, at least by definition, He certainly doesn't need your sacrifice to fulfill Himself. And as a "Creator", He doesn't need to wait for you to "get it right" according to the world. He just "creates" what He needs, hence the term "Creator".

Therefore, for you to have all the good that is coming, and to be led there by your Angels, know that they are tasked with leading you to a life of wholeness, completeness, and loving goodness in every way for YOU.

It certainly doesn't serve God for you to have a "battleship gray" life instead of one that could delight you in every way.

I already mentioned how God cannot profit from your sacrifice, but any good parent takes joy at their children's fulfillment, and God is no exception.

<http://www.YouHaveAngels.com>

The difference is, God has the ability to help you get to your ideal state of joy and completion.

He is sending you Angels for just that very thing.

About the Author

Paul Greblich helps people learn how to connect and receive guidance from their Angels on a consistent, daily basis in order to have a greater amount of peace, balance, and wholeness in their lives.

He is the developer/creator of the Inner Influencing self-empowerment set of tools and techniques which can quickly, easily, and gently help you to eliminate emotional discord and remove the subconscious blocks to greater and greater well-being.

On the eve of what would have been his second major breakdown, Paul said, "God, I give" and shortly after started to recognize the presence of Angels who gave him information to help him heal from the experience and to help others connect and receive guidance from their Angels, too.

Paul teaches clients over the phone from across the globe how to connect with their Angels, as well as how to apply the Inner Influencing tools for their own unique needs and situations.

He is dedicated to bringing concepts that were often considered mystical and unapproachable to the masses in a way that is easy to understand and implement for the improvement of their lives in every area.

His "no holds barred" teaching style has earned him great praise for being fun, friendly, and refreshingly irreverent to experience, especially with material that could often be considered too emotionally challenging or even difficult to approach.

His phone clients have often expressed great surprise to mild shock in his ability to tune into their emotional state and being able to recognize the subconscious factors that are contributing to the problem, even if he was talking to them from the other side of the planet.

He has also had comments from professional psychics saying that he's given them the best reading that they, themselves, have ever been given.

However, he concedes that anyone should be able to do this, and strives to help people develop and nurture their own unique gifts. It was only out of his own great need that his own strengths developed.

His goal is to help everyone with an interest in doing so to find complete wholeness and self-realization as quickly, safely, easily, and gently as possible...and to help them stay there.

<http://www.YouHaveAngels.com>
