
PART TWO

Preventing and Resolving Internal Conflict

Some of the most frustrating challenges faced by managers are those related to employee disputes. The chapters in this part examine different facets of conflict internal to organizations rather than those dealing with external parties such as customers or vendors. The first step in preventing unproductive workplace conflict is creating policies and procedures that encourage constructive and collaborative behaviors from employees at all levels of the company.

