

About UNITE

UNITE (URBAN NEEDS IN TEACHER EDUCATION) is a nonprofit organization aiming to enhance the preparation of teachers in our nation's most underprivileged and underrepresented schools. Since its founding in 2006, UNITE has grown from a small, on-campus group at Illinois State University to a national nonprofit serving thousands of educators annually. UNITE provides professional development for preservice and in-service teachers on topics ranging from classroom management and grant writing to special education and gangs. UNITE works actively with schools, universities, and colleges of education across the nation.
